

Los Angeles County

The Los Angeles County Courthouse downtown.
Part 16 of 25: San Pedro.

Los Angeles County

© 2012 by Larry Stevens
stevens.lawrence@comcast.net

San Pedro

This is one of the many container ships from Asia that sail into Long Beach and San Pedro. (December 2003)

San Pedro

These tugs roared into action just a few minutes after the picture was taken. (December 2003)

San Pedro

The Fermin Point lighthouse just to the west of the town.
(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

This father was entertaining his daughter. (December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

The Korean Peace Bell was dedicated in 1976. The bell weighs 17 tons, is 8 inches thick and is 12 feet high. (December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro Korean Peace Bell

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

One of the old "Red Line" cars that once connected areas of the Los Angeles Basin to each other. It runs up and down the wharf. (December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

(December 2003)

San Pedro

Vincent Thomas Bridge connects San Pedro with Terminal Island. It is 1,500 feet long. (December 2009)

San Pedro

(December 2009)

San Pedro

(December 2009)

San Pedro

This is one of four refineries in Wilmington which is next door to San Pedro. (December 2009)

San Pedro

(December 2009)

San Pedro

(December 2009)

San Pedro

San Pedro is Los Angeles' harbor. It is part of the city of LA even though it is a few miles to the south of the city. Right next door is the Long Beach Port, a separate port. (December 2009)

San Pedro

The port covers 7,500 acres and has 43 miles of shoreline. 2,182 ships arrive each year. (December 2009)

San Pedro

(December 2009)

