

San Bernardino

The county court house in San Bernardino.
Part 3 of 8: Redlands, Mentone, Yucaipa, Calimesa

San Bernardino County

© 2012 by Larry Stevens
stevens.lawrence@comcast.net

Redlands

The Smiley Library is an historical landmark. (February 2004)

Redlands

The city was incorporated in 1888. The population is 69,000.
(April 2009)

Redlands

The Lincoln Shrine. This is the only shrine to Lincoln west of the Mississippi.
(February 2004)

Redlands

(February 2004)

Redlands

(February 2004)

Redlands

The Smiley brothers built the first public library in Redlands. (February 2004)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Redlands

(February 2004)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Redlands

(February 2004)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Redlands

(February 2004)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Redlands

The City Hall. (April 2009)

Redlands

(April 2009)

Mentone

This little town outside of Redlands has a population of 8,720. Highway 38 is the main street of town. This area still grows citrus. (December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Mentone

Subdivisions are gradually replacing orange groves.
(December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Mentone

There are a lot of river rock in the Santa Ana River – Mill Creek area. Many of the older homes are built of rock. (December 2005)

Mentone

(December 2005)

Yucaipa

Yucaipa has a population of 51,000. This is the new city hall. (December 2005)

Yucaipa

(December 2005)

Yucaipa

(December 2005)

Yucaipa

(December 2005)

Yucaipa

(December 2005)

Yucaipa

(December 2005)

Mill Creek Canyon

Highway 38 follows Mill Creek Canyon to Big Bear. (December 2005)

Mountain Home Village

A little village on Highway 38. (December 2005)

Mountain Home Village

(December 2005)

Mountain Home Village

(December 2005)

Mill Creek

(December 2005)

Angelus Oaks

(December 2005)

Big Bear City

(December 2005)

Big Bear City

(December 2005)

Big Bear City

(December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

Big Bear Lake is seven miles long. (December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

(December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

The city has a population of 5,000 but can, with tourists and vacationers, balloon to 100,000. The first big resort was built in 1921. The city was incorporated in 1980. (December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

(December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

(December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

(December 2005)

Big Bear Lake

(December 2005)

Running Springs

The population is about 4,800. (December 2005)

Running Springs

(December 2005)

Running Springs

(December 2005)

Running Springs

(December 2005)

Rim of the World

Rim of the World High School sits on top of the San Bernardino Mountains. It has about 1,400 students drawn from the Lake Arrowhead area. (December 2005)

Rim of the World

(December 2005)

Rim of the World

Reclaiming burned logs. This area has had devastating forest fires. One of the reasons the forests are so ready to burn is years of drought which have weakened the trees and made them susceptible to fire.

Rim of the World

(December 2005)

Rim of the World

(December 2005)

Skyforest

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

Lake Arrowhead is an old mountain resort that dates back to the 1920's.
(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Arrowhead

(December 2005)

Lake Silverwood

The reservoir was created in 1971 as the southern end of the California Water Project. It is located on the Mojave River. (December 2005)

Mojave River

(December 2005)

Lake Silverwood

(December 2005)

Crest Forest

This is a little resort community that sits on top of the San Bernardino mountains. (December 2005)

Crest Forest

(December 2005)

Crest Forest

(December 2005)

Crest Forest

(December 2005)

Crestline

Crestline sits at the top of the San Bernardino Mountains above San Bernardino. It has a population of about 11,000. (December 2005)

Crestline

(December 2005)

Crestline

(December 2005)

Crestline

(December 2005)

