

San Luis Obispo

San Luis Obispo County Courthouse in San Luis Obispo.
Part 3 of 6: Morro Bay, Los Osos, Port San Luis, Avila Beach,
Shell Beach.

San Luis Obispo County

© 2012 by Larry Stevens
stevens.lawrence@comcast.net

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

Morro Rock is a volcanic plug – it is lava that oozed out of a crack in the earth. There are nine of them arrayed in a line along Highway 101 to San Luis Obispo. (April 2004)

Morro Bay

The town was founded in 1870 and it served as a port for shipping dairy products. It is also the spot where the first Filipino immigrants landed in 1587. That is not a typo.

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

(April 2004)

Morro Bay

Our favorite restaurant. (August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

Morro Bay

Morro Bay as seen from the Montano de Oro State Park to the south of Morro Bay.(August 2010)

Morro Bay

(August 2010)

San Luis Harbor

This is the location of PG & E's nuclear power plant. (August 2005)

San Luis Harbor

(August 2005)

San Luis Harbor

(August 2005)

San Luis Harbor

(August 2005)

San Luis Harbor

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

The population is 1,627. It has been a port for San Luis Obispo since the 19th Century. When we shot these photos the community was in the middle of a building boom. (August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Avila Beach

(August 2005)

Shell Beach

(August 2005)

Shell Beach

Shell Beach

Shell Beach

Shell Beach

